Class Prophecy

It was early on the morn of June 1, 1976 when we, the authors, started on our scientific expedition in our Newsmobile designed for discovering all traces of the Askov High School Class of "56". It was a long trip before we found them all, but we do believe it was worth it. Here is the results of our expedition as first revealed to the public.

Our first stop was in Sandstone where we were greeted by Nola. She has one big happy family, but says she still has time for singing career. From there we went on to Askov where it seems to be deserted of the class of "56". But wait!! Who is it poking his head out of the school! Dale Clausen who has devoted his life to being full time janitor to Askov School. He has informed us he is a bachelor but still has hopes. While talking to Dale he told us Paul had married his school steady and was running a chain of Chevrolet garages from Duluth to Minneapolis.

We went on to Bruno where we found Bob and Helga who had restored the pickle factory. They brought us up to date on the different kinds of pickles. They showed us an issue of the Askov American; we saw that Leland was editor. We read the paper and found an article about Bob Sostak. He had made a career of the army and was receiving many medals for his bravery. We were happy to find he was home on furlough. So we set off to find Bob and Leland. Bob told us he was enjoying every minute of his army life. Leland had remodeled the American building. He reported he was happily married and living on his mansion east of Askov.

We got in our Newsmobile and started for Duquette and Lo and Behold what do we see but Lund's Tavern still in operation by Duane. Also living in Duquette were Esther and Greta who had started an old maids home next to the dance hall.

From there we went to Duluth where we found Eddie Schrader running a clothing store for tall men. Right next door was "Princess Nancys" Dress Shop. Nancy was selling dresses she had designed herself. Nancy told us we would find Gene a block down. He had his own little business of collecting garbage... We had a very enjoyable little chat with him.

Once again we got in our Newsmobile and decided to go to Winnepeg, Canada. Here we found Gail and Eleanor making a movie. Gail had taken the title of Marilyn Monroe and Eleanor was a stand-in for Doris Day. They said they enjoyed being in the movies. They still had the familiar Knee-highs on!!!

It was about noon when we were in a little town in Montana, so we decided we'd stop and eat. We saw a little restaurant and on it said Bade's Eat Shop. We went in and found Suzie and Jane working as waitresses. They told us Earnest owned the restaurant. We were surprised because in high school Ernie had taken such an interest in Physics and engineering.

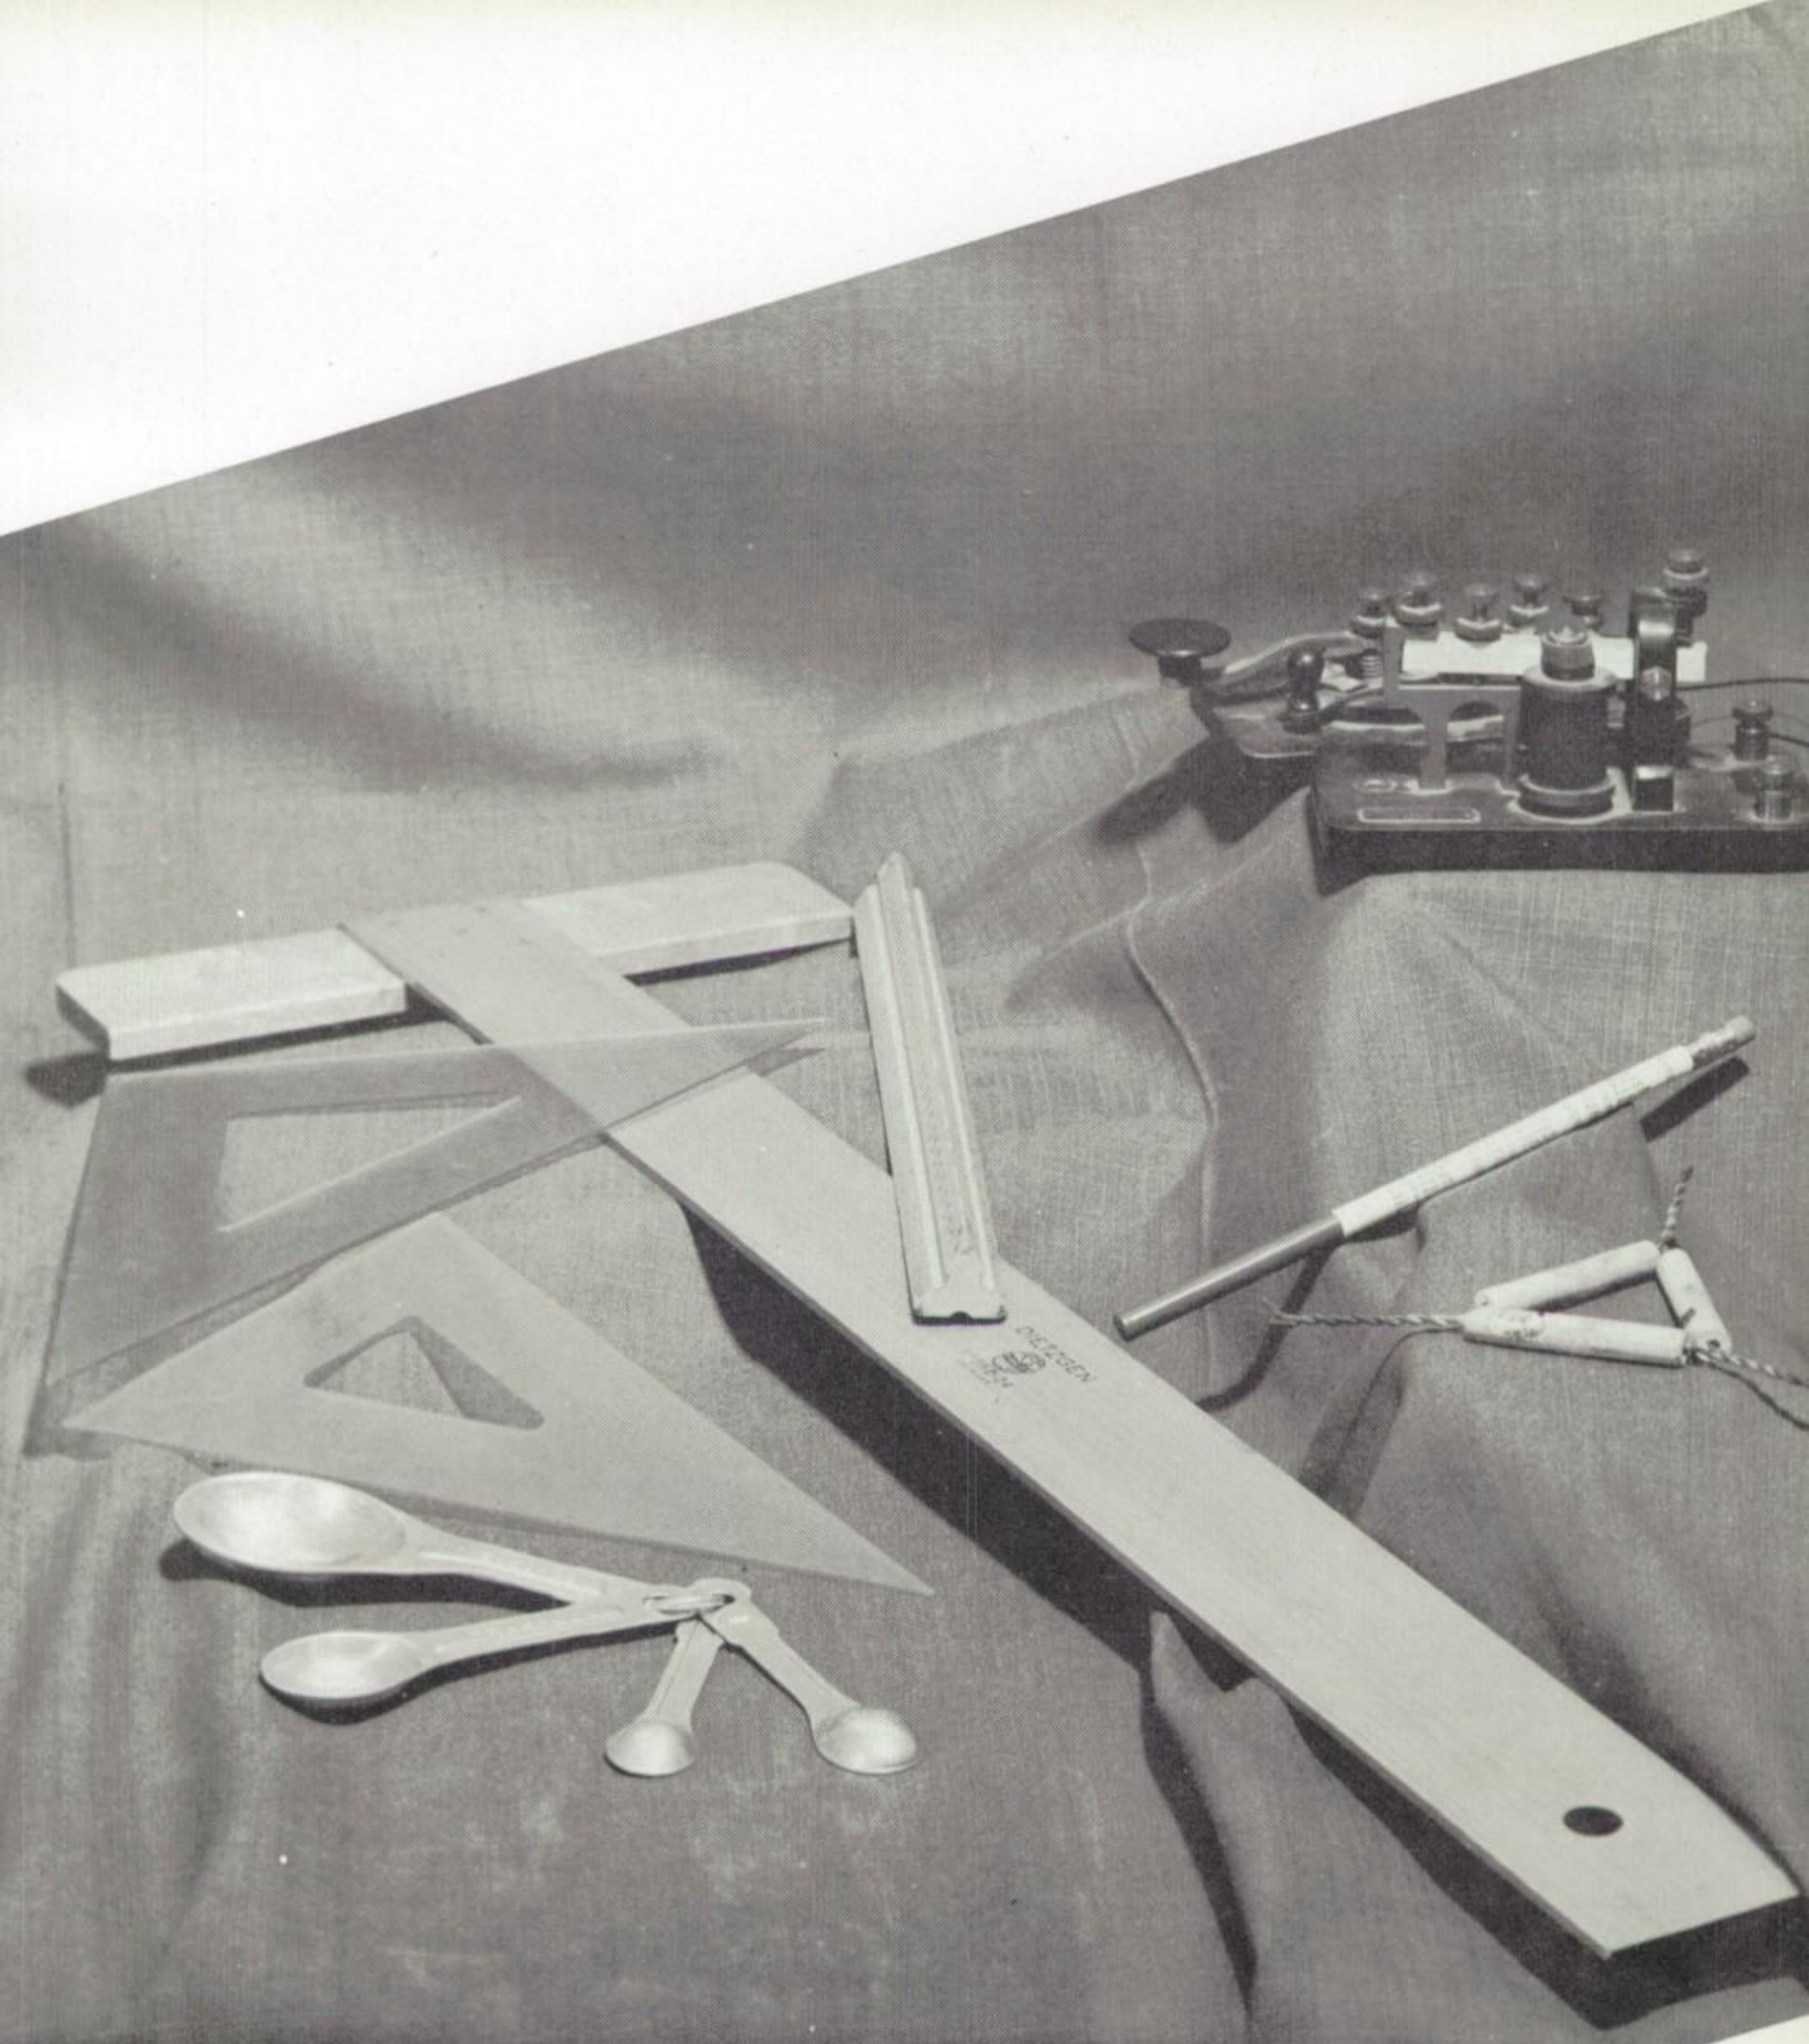

From there we proceeded to Wyoming. Here we found Allen Ecklund living on a ranch. He was taking life easy and having all his work done with the push button devices. We went on to Oregon State College. Here we found Loretta having an art class of her own. We knew she would be doing something like that because she had so much artistic ability in school. We also found Shirley living in Oregon. She was happily married and had a family of redheads.

Then we went to New Mexico. As we were driving through a little town we thought we saw someone familiar sleeping under a tree. We stopped and sure enough it was Richard M. He was still in the habit of taking his daily nap. He told us he had just seen Donnie and he had gone on to Santa Fe. We found him there with his trombone and directing his "Great Roving Band".

We went on to Washington D.C. and found Shiela working in the Library of Congress. She said she was glad she had worked in the library while going to high school. On our stop in New York we found Bob Passow had taken over a large insurance company and had as his secretary, Barbara. They reported the business had really picked up in the last few years.

Then we went to Nebraska where we found Philip living on a ranch and raising chickens. He must be pulling in quite a bit of "moola" because he was driving a 76' Cadillac. Philip told us Mavis was on one of her work-wide tours which she took annually. It must be fun to be rich. From Nebraska we went to Idaho and found Roger Newman. He had a large potato farm and also prospering.

We had at last reached the end of our journey. It had been a long one as we had told you before, but now don't you agree with us that it was well worth it?????

On May 5, 1955, the Juniors and Seniors spent a delightful "Evening In Paris". They danced in the romantic setting under the Eifel tower and sipped punch in candlelight at the sidewalk cafes. A beautiful banquet got the evening off to a wonderful start.

A very suspenseful aire was created in the Askov School Auditorium on Nov. 19, 1954, when the Juniors presented their class play, "Home Sweet Homicide". A widowed mother finds difficulty when her teenage children and their friends try to solve the mystery of a murder next door. The murder is finally solved and the children are rewarded with a detective for a father.

On November 7, 1955, the Junior Class presented their play, "The Nutt Family". The setting was a former sanitarium, and it couldn't help but provide wholesome entertainment when the Nutt family moved in. You can imagine the confusion which took place however; it ended quite perfectly and even with a touch of romance.
